

The 3 Golden Keys You Need For Your Highly-Conscious Business Foundation.

Having been in business for several years as a conscious entrepreneur, I've learned what creates a solid foundation (and what doesn't). I have also observed many conscious entrepreneurs over the years, and have noticed that there are key ingredients that are missing, which ultimately lead to the decline of their business.

This is often challenging to witness since they have a wonderful, heart-centred product or service, but there are key energies that are missing which create misalignment, and that misalignment creates disharmony and so their business unfolds (literally). This is one of the main reasons why I offer business coaching for conscious entrepreneurs; I just can't bare to witness another shining light feeling defeated and packing it in simply because no one shared with them the magic ingredients.

So, in the spirit of being of high-service to you, here are the 3 Golden Keys that you need to succeed in creating you profitable, sustainable highly-conscious business:

1. Commitment - This means commitment to your contract, your purpose, your dreams, your message AND your business-related tasks (let's call them creative endeavours). When we send out non-committal energy into the universe, we attract that in return. Alternately, each time we stand in commitment on behalf of our business, the universe matches that accordingly.

Here's what I've learned about why so many folks avoid commitment: It is because there is a subconscious program about what commitment means, and that definition is NOT serving. Commitment also implies intimacy, so when seek to be more committed in a certain area, it unconsciously triggers the intimacy button.

The great news is that your business can actually serve as a wonderful healing tool for "commitment issues" if you allow yourself to move through the energy rather than avoiding it.

2. Consistency - Huh? What does consistency have to do with business? Everything! If you are not consistently showing up for yourself, your clients, your colleagues and so on, you will most certainly create inconsistent results in your business. If, on the other hand, you are consistent in your message, your policies, your marketing (and beyond), you will absolutely create consistent clientele, income and so much more. This is a part of working within a universe that has spiritual laws of energy.

3. Investment - If you do not invest in your vision, your business, your growth and beyond, then you've energetically sent a message to the universe that you are NOT worth investing in. This means attracting ideal clients, opportunities, colleague connections and more will be much more challenging because you are not acting out what you wish to create. Make sense?

This means investing on all levels, including time, energy, money and beyond. What is even a small action that you can create right now to demonstrate to the universe that you are prepared to invest and be invested in?

Please remember that as long as you view your business as something that costs you, it will continue to do so. But, if you view your business as an invest, then it will provide you with many dividends (monetary and beyond).

These 3 keys are essential, and I've found that there are often at least 1 or 2 that are misaligned in entrepreneurs, so it is my high coach's request for you to find a way to align these 3 keys for your business success.
